

Voter Fraud Dream 10-13-24 to 10-15-24 with Confirmation

(Confirmation that's available at this time from articles and happenings are included in this PDF as I was instructed to do from my lovely Jesus Christ and in His great Name. Thank you and God bless. Stay under the Blood of Jesus Christ always. Vicki Goforth Parnell)

(Spoken on this video at the time this dream was released. "Now because of the information in it, I tried and tested it myself anyways but I had my son try and test this. And then asked, "Am I supposed to share this? Because I kept hearing I'm supposed to share it but you know how people will take the obvious and run with it.....I've laid it before Him and I'm going to give it now. Let me state I am not politically affiliated with either side of politics. I just give the dreams like I receive them. If I am voting and I'm not saying if or if not I Vote or I do vote, (I have voted in the past) I pray and ask the Holy Spirit to lead me so that God's will will be done. Because He sets up kings and He pulls them down according to Daniel 2. I think it's around 20 to 21...22 around through there. So again I'm not affiliated with any of them, the Democrats, Republicans... Independents. I'm not, I'm affiliated with Jesus Christ who is my Lord.

55:47 Mark: I've been praying about this dream but I also I did not feel like I was to release it until actually yesterday. I felt like it's time to release it and I went to praying again. Jesus Christ You really want this dream released? Because a lot of times I get dreams like this and I pray about them myself but I had it three days in a row. 56:20: Lord, I don't know if it's literal... all of it literal or symbolic. Seek Jesus Christ on this.

100:27 Mark: So again ask Jesus Christ what He's trying to tell you, ask for His message. "Father God what is it?...Discernment... if any of it's symbolic let me know. If any of it is literal, let me know. What is it that You're warning us about or giving us the information about. Because I tell you what...He will give warning and information if you will pay attention.

The dream:

I dreamed this dream for three nights Jesus Christ my love. I have tried, tested, and prayed over it in Your holy Name. This is a 2 Corinthians 13:1 dream which says in part, "In the mouth of two or three witnesses shall every word be established."

Here is the dream from Father God and Jesus Christ. Sweet Holy Spirit don't let me write one single word in any way in Jesus Christ's Name, I pray and ask my dear sweet Friend. "I won't Daughter of Zion, now write as I bring it forth to your memory.

It began with me, as myself walking down a street. I knew going into this dream our nation was in a state of unrest and it was getting close to our presidential election of November 5th. I am casually walking down a street in loose fitting light blue jeans, tennis shoes, and a long sleeve shirt that says, "Faith over fear."

The street appears abandoned. There's a breeze blowing and suddenly my leg is hit by a piece of white paper. I saw other pieces of paper of various colors being blown around. Then the wind abruptly stopped causing the white piece of paper to land on the pavement not far from me. Curiosity piqued My interest. I walked the few paces to the paper and reached down quickly so I could see what was on it.

Written in bold letters were the words, " TOWN HALL MEETING TODAY AT 7:30 PM." Come make your voice be heard. US citizens have a right to a voting system that cannot be tampered with!" Again it said, "Make your voice known. Let's become one voice and let the government remember well the power of the people and their right to vote. As it is written in our Constitution as one of our rights."

Then it gave the location as the courthouse. In this dream I already knew where this was. I looked at the watch I'm wearing and it read, "10 till 7:00." It's only a few minutes away. "I need to go there," I said to myself. I begin walking faster.

As I turned the corner of the street and saw a newspaper stand that contained magazines and newspapers. Some of the titles caught my attention so I paused momentarily. There is a magazine cover that's displaying boldly these words. "Voter fraud again has been found already. There is a picture of a voting machine and someone holding out what looks like a mailed-in ballot.

In smaller writing the magazine cover says this. "What happens on election day with the voting machines that's open to cyber attacks when the mailed-in ballots are already being reported as having been tampered with?" I looked over at a newspaper that read, "Democrat and Republican voters demand a better way of voting to ensure there's no voter fraud in the election of 2024.

I looked at one more magazine that's named Deja Vu. Its front cover reads, "The masses of US citizens angrily demand for election day to be postponed until a guaranteed voting procedure can be implemented by the government." None of these articles surprised me. I looked at my watch and there's only 8 minutes left. I felt an urgency to attend this meeting so I began walking briskly to the courthouse.

I began seeing other people the closer I got to the courthouse. They all seem to be headed to the town hall meeting also. There was a line that had formed to get inside with people already being let in. "Why was it taking so long to enter?" I asked myself. Then I saw there are two men that look like secret servicemen that are holding handheld devices. They are scanning every person, even their shoes before they are LED into the courthouse. Apparently this is a bigger deal than I realized.

I watched as the secret service type men came closer. I heard one say to the third person in front of me. "No cell phones or any other electronic devices allowed." The man started to protest. Secret servicemen spoke as if speaking to someone else and immediately two more men dressed like him arrived and escorted the man to the back of the line. I heard one say, "You either put your cell phone in your vehicle or leave the premises immediately."

Before I can see what happened with the man the two secret servicemen begin scanning me with their devices. "All clear," one said to me then directed me to move forward. I glanced at my watch. One minute till 7:00. As I entered the courthouse I could see all the news teams had arrived also but it was also local news people too. I saw Fox News, CNN, MSNBC, NBC, CBS, AL Jazeera, but here in America, CNN, Free Speech TV, and more. Whether these are all real new stations I will research later Lord willing. For now I am being told by sweet Holy Spirit to continue to write.

After I pass through the walk-through, the walk-in safety detectors a woman sitting at a table by the detector hands me a badge. Everyone gets one I noticed and they're randomly drawn out of a covered basket. As she handed me mine she smiled in Surprise and said. "Congratulations, yours is a VIP badge meaning you get to sit in the front with special privileges."

I smiled back at the woman then asked, "Which way do I go? ""Put your badge on then wait over there by the secret service men. When two more are pulled you will then be taken to your preferred seating." "Thank you," I replied and walked to the area she pointed to. Apparently the secret service knew why I was there. There are two of them standing not far away. One nods at me acknowledging me then turns and looks away.

I turned back to the long line of people being let through the safety detectors waiting for two more VIP badges to be drawn so we could then be seated. I noticed it was like my hearing had become supernaturally enhanced and everything I heard was amplified so I could hear everything being spoken. Yet I was also able to distinguish the different voices and focus on what I wanted to hear. I thought to myself, "That's interesting but why am I able to hear this way like never before?" There was no answer forthcoming at this time. I watched as a woman at the table continued to draw out regular badges and not any other VIP badges as of yet.

Suddenly another secret service man walks by and begins talking to the two nearest me in a hushed tone. My curiosity is piqued because I have been trying to determine in my mind who's here at the town hall meeting that requires them to be here? I direct my focus on hearing upon these three still with my eyes averted from them.

I heard the third secret service man who joined the other two say, "Word from the office is the election may very well have to be postponed or pushed back but if not, everything is ready. We have confirmed reports that the software manipulation for the CME and solar flare output has been activated. The giant flare bursts will be sent out on the pictures. It will appear in the modifications to look like the others. Only those looking for the proton emissions will suspect anything."

"Good," one of the first two secret servicemen replied back. "I have already confirmed and received the orders that all is ready and operation eagle blackout is a go. We will under the guise of our fake CME and solar projection be able to black out the designated news areas as well as the internet highway where needed. If everything stays on its present course this will be one election day in these United States for the history books."

I was listening intently and failed to see that the woman had pulled out another VIP badge until a man walked up to me, startling me from my concentration of the secret servicemen's conversation. The man seems not to notice as he begins speaking to me excitedly but also angrily. The whole place full of people were disgruntled over our nation's voting process. As a man continued to speak I was able to catch one last of the sentences of the secret servicemen's conversation.

I heard the other secret service man who hadn't spoken yet say, "We will also be taking down parts of the electric grid in key states one way or another. And it's hard to cast your vote with an electric powered voting machine." Then the scene changed.

I found myself in a very large room. It's not one of the actual courtrooms. The room has been set up with three podiums in the front room with rows and rows of chairs set up for the people to sit in. I don't think this room in reality is inside a courthouse because when I look behind me the rows of chairs went as far as my eyes could see. I am in the front row right in the middle, the center of the row. Apparently the badges also had row numbers that I hadn't noticed.

The news people and their cameras are to the right left of the set up podiums so as not to block anyone's direct view. The podium on the left has a blue donkey on the front of the wood. While the one on the right has a red elephant on its front. The podium in the middle between the red donkey and blue elephant has nothing on its front. Each has a microphone set up. It actually looks like a presidential debate is about to happen.

The room is crowded and I could tell the emotions in the room were mostly of anger. I started praying in Jesus Christ's Name for the safety of all here, for all hidden agendas to be exposed, and the truth to be revealed in that particular order. As I quoted Luke 8:17, Mark 4:22, Ecclesiastes 12:14, and Luke 10:19 over the room silently to myself in the authority of Jesus Christ.

I could hear the people behind me as they discussed heatedly the mailed-in ballots tampering that had already been discovered and proven. "Signatures were not matching up with many on file," one man declared angrily. The whole atmosphere in the room was of angry anticipation. A woman next to the man that had spoken replied, "They better do something about it this time before we the people take matters into our own hands."

Suddenly a man in dress pants and a button-up shirt walked from behind the three podiums to the middle one. He paused for a moment before speaking as a crowd hushed to a tense silence. "Ladies and gentlemen, fair people of our country, we are here tonight to discuss the issue publicly of our federally held US presidential election that is coming up on November 5th."

"As we all know there have been several reports, some validated while others are still waiting on the outcome of voter fraud. Due to the concerns of the people over the ability of the US government to hold an election that's not compromised in any way we are here to discuss a possible solution. We must insist that the people of this great nation to refrain from further violence."

The people's mood was going from bad to worse in the room I could tell. This man's words seemed only to fuel the anger that was brewing inside the people. The man seemed to sense this and shortened his speech. He said quickly, "Without further delay let's bring forth our presidential candidates. And in addition we have a surprise visit from our president Joe Biden and his wife Jill. He will be speaking a brief few words at the end of this town hall discussion."

Before anyone could respond, out from the back came Kamala Harris, Joe Biden and his wife Jill, Donald Trump, and several secret servicemen personnel which took a stance at the back of the room near the door they entered. Joe Biden and Jill took seats behind the podium with the blue donkey and Kamala Harris took her place behind the podium. Donald Trump stood behind the podium with the red elephant. (They never once called Jill the first lady in this dream.)

There is no excitement or uproar of applause for anyone who entered the room. The people here were here for a solution and their concern was for a fair election. The man in the middle, the moderator, begins speaking once again. "Thank you President Joe Biden, Jill, and Kamala Harris from the White House itself. As you know Kamala Harris is the Democratic nominee running for US president in this debated election. Her opposition is President Donald J. Trump... uh-oh I meant former president." Then the moderator winked at the crowd then continued speaking. "Let's give our honored guests a great big welcome," and begin clapping his hands vigorously.

I heard a few people join in but most did not. A man's voice from somewhere behind me yelled out. We know who they are, let's cut the chase and get straight to the issue at hand." Another person yelled out, "I agree." Then the room erupted in an agreeing applause. The moderator shuffled on his feet. Kamala Harris looked uneasy but Donald Trump seemed at ease with a small smile on his face. When the applause died down he spoke and said to the moderator, "Joe let's give the people what they've asked for. A solution for this fiasco situation of what's occurring at the election counting sites."

Applause erupted through the room again. As soon as it began to die down Kamala Harris not to be outdone by Trump's action and words spoke these words. "Yes I'm sure there is an agreeable solution that can rectify the situation but we all must be patient and let the government do its job." A woman's voice yelled, you've been in office for over 3 years and the government hasn't done its job yet. Why should we believe it's going to do it now?"

The people begin raising their voices in agreement. The moderator raised his hands motioning for everyone to settle down and to be quiet. When the crowd finally did, the moderator said, "If you can't maintain yourself to where you can hear what is to be discussed and determined you will be asked to leave. If you do not comply you will be physically escorted out of this town hall meeting so that those who came here to reach a resolution can do so."

This caused a crowd to become somewhat but not entirely subdued in their actions. I'm watching all still praying silently in Jesus Christ Name Luke 8:17. "For nothing is secret, that shall not be made manifest;. neither anything here that should not be known and come abroad," over this meeting and it's occupants. The meeting finally fully commenced and I sat there listening for a little bit. Kamala Harris is now speaking.

"The president and I are looking into the claims of ballot tampering. Claims that have come forth, but we want to assure the American people that there hasn't been any substantial evidence to support these accusations. It is our duty to ensure the American people have an election day free of tampering of any kind and have put in place strict measures to see the validity of each ballot is from a verified voter." She paused for a moment to catch your breath and Donald Trump jumped in and began speaking.

"Kamala Harris, that's not quite true. There's already been more than one location with evidence of wrong signatures to match that of the registered voter. Even the news that reported and showed the proof. Maybe you and your office need to be briefed again. In addition there have been multiple ballots with the same name but written and spelled differently. All these have been verified. The good people of our great country America deserve a fair election."

Applause went up through the room at these words. Kamala Harris' face turned red but as soon as the noise died down she spoke. "And this is what this administration is doing." Donald Trump asked her, "How? What's your recommendations to ensure each vote cast is a legitimate one?" Before she could answer he spoke again. "Why don't we ask the people what they want? Let's open it up Joe for the good people here to be allowed to ask their questions or give the recommendations."

Joe the moderator nodded. Kamala Harris looked furious as she took her hand and fidgeted it with their ear as if it was bothering her. The moderator begins speaking to the crowd. "Let's have our first question from the people gathered here tonight." The man next beside me raised hand quickly. Apparently the VIP section also was chosen first to participate from the crowd.

A man with a microphone walked over to the man beside me who stood up. "What's your name?" The man with a mic asked him. "Jerry Duncan." "Okay Jerry, ask your question or give you suggestions." "Okay, I suggest that election day be postponed and paper ballots be brought back because of all the potentials for a Cyber attack or fraud through the software program itself. With the handwritten ballots our nation would at least have a record if some type of malware was released into our government voters programming. Is this a possibility?" He asked.

Kamala Harris spoke up, "Postponing our US presidential election I don't feel is a legitimate option. It has been the tradition of our country's people to vote on the Tuesday after the first Monday in the month of November for many years now. To change that now would be like changing Thanksgiving or Christmas Day. I don't see this is a viable option," she said to the standing man who had shared his thoughts and questions.

The man spoke up before the man could move the microphone away. "This is not a holiday but one of the most important events for our nation. You would not even postpone it even to ensure a legitimate presidential election?" He asked. "Well, no that's not what I meant," Kamala replied quickly then said. "If that's the only alternative solution then yes this administration would consider pushing the election day for voting further back."

The moderator looked over at president Trump. Do you have anything to say, Mr Trump?" "Yes Joe I do," he replied. "These are legitimate concerns. It's a real possibility from past situations that the voting machines' software can be hit by a cyber attack. If the Pentagon could be breached by hackers which had the best security and firewalls in 2015 then it is a very possible scenario. I like the idea of going back to the paper ballots myself so you have a hard copy you can hold in your hand that can't be wiped out by a single keystroke. The postponing of election day could be for a short period of time. The change over from the old to new administration newly elected in we know takes place near the end of January. It is doable," he finished saying.

I watched Kamala Harris's face grimace at his words. She didn't like what Trump said. The moderator from the stage said quickly, "Let's have our next question from the crowd." Hands went up. The moderator pointed to a lady in a magenta pink shirt. The man with the microphone headed to the woman in pink located at the far right third row from the front. When he pointed the microphone toward the woman she spoke in an angry voice.

"I want to know what's going to be done to ensure my vote when cast is received and is counted unaltered or thrown away in a dumpster somewhere because someone doesn't like who I've chosen to vote for. Can you guarantee my vote will count for the party I voted for?" The moderators stood quiet for a moment expecting Kamala Harris or Donald Trump to speak. Neither did. It appeared they were waiting on each other. Donald Trump smiled at Kamala Harris then said, "Ladies first."

She looked at him hatefully but recovered quickly. She fidgeted it with her ear again before speaking. "We have security at each location. We have camera surveillance enhanced with AI capabilities. All ballots will be securely locked up each night until fully counted as we have always done. This is the most important election for our nation's people, the ability to choose who you trust to lead this nation. The integrity of this administration ensures these locations and ballots will be highly protected." Then she gave a big smile. Just as Donald Trump said, "Like the last election when voter ballots had been thrown away."

Kamala Harris started to object but he raised his hand to let her know he wasn't done speaking. She quickly refrained herself in front of all the people and news cameras. Donald Trump said in a calm, strong voice. "I recommend that every voting center have 24 hours surveillance and independent guards that keep a watchful eye on the ballot counting as well as on election day itself. Each early ballot submitted should be verified with the guards present and in sight of all the surveillance equipment."

"In addition there should be only authorized and certified people to hand count the ballots. I know this seems like a lot of extra work and there is a possibility of some human error, but with all the Cyber attack threats it would be worth it for the people of our nation to receive a legitimate count of the vote they cast. Technology is great but with such an important event as this election wherein the leader of our free country is being chosen everything possible must be done because voting is a hard-earned freedom for all us who probably call ourselves Americans."

Murmurs of approval went through the crowd. The moderators spoke up. "Let's have our next person from the crowd." As he's selecting the next one my eyes are drawn to Joe Biden. He had for the most part appear to be half-heartedly listening while his wife Jill occasionally patted his hand reassuringly. I had been observing them occasionally off and on while the town hall meeting continued.

Suddenly he looked into me as the next person was speaking and I noticed a shrewd intelligent gleam in his eyes. Something I hadn't seen all night. "This is a real Joe Biden," I thought, "who for some reason it's playing some type of charade for the whole world." He was listening intently to what was being said. His wife noticed his look and she reached over and patted his shoulder. He looked over at her with an almost hateful glare then when he looked away the dull look of mindlessness had returned.

I heard the last few words of the woman voicing her opinion. "If you are not a US citizen then you should not be allowed to even vote in our presidential election. Some form of legal ID should be presented to vote whether by early voting or on election day itself." Murmurs of approval went through the room. As I'm listening to Kamala Harris's response about how there are many illegal immigrants waiting on their green cards who contribute to our nation's prosperity. They shouldn't be punished because the bureaucratic system is behind approving and processing them. Every vote counts, boos went through the crowd and the moderator lifted his hand quickly to silence them. The crowd complied.

As he is speaking my eyes are drawn to Joe Biden again. He has raised his hand up to his left ear momentarily. "What is it with their ears?" I asked myself. Bend your body's face changed and it felt he had somehow been given some type of new information. Then I determined both he and Kamala Harris had some type of earpiece in.

He looked at you and the shrewdness was back in his eyes. This time she did nothing. The moderator paused for a moment then said, "It's time now for the President Joe Biden to now say a word about the current situation that has distressed and divided our nation's people so vigorously." He turned to Joe and Jill Biden and said, "Mr President, the podium is yours." Joe Biden got up and quickly took center stage. As he began speaking I noticed the dullness was gone. He was speaking clearly using decisive words.

"It is this administration's policy to do what's best for the American people. We have been investigating the alleged claims of voter fraud and there has been some evidence that may have occurred in some early voting in small amounts. As I have sat here listening to the concerns of this nation's people, the same words and concerns coming from almost every state, we must do what we can to ensure this election is carried through in the securest way possible. It is our hope the violence toward each party would see some immediately."

"Therefore we're going to suspend further voting until all ballots already received are verified and alleviate all concerns. This administration finds it is in the best interest of its people to postpone election day by approximately 2 weeks so we can install, as Mr Trump suggested, 24 hours surveillance equipment in every voting center and ballot counting location. We will also consider whether for this election to bring back the signed paper ballots for the remaining election day voting."

I watch Kamala Harris as her face filled with shock then anger when she tried to hide but failed miserably. As Joe Biden continued to speak I looked at my watch. It said 9:10. "Oh, it's late. I need to be going," I thought just as I heard Joe Biden turned the meeting back to the moderator. I noticed Donald Trump had a grin on his face as if he was pleased by the outcome of at least something that occurred in this town hall meeting.

As the moderator dismissed the meeting the secret servicemen came forward and guided Donald Trump, Joe and Jill Biden, and the still angry Kamala Harris out the back way they had come in. People were being ushered out the back but those in the VIP sitting area were being sent out the side door we had come through earlier. The crowd was massive that had come. In the pushing and bustling to get us out some of us got sent in the wrong direction.

We separated as we tried to find our way to the front exit. I started to head to my right when I had a strong urgency inside me to go to the direction of the left hallway instead. I followed my instinct or gut feeling after praying in Jesus Christ's Name and as I began walking I heard heated voices. I stopped immediately right near the women's bathroom. With my hearing still spiritually, supernaturally enhanced I could hear the conversation. It is Kamala Harris angrily speaking to Joe Biden.

"What in the cuss cuss do you think you're doing promising to postpone the election? This is my time. They promised me," she almost shouted. "Now Kami," he said, shortening her name, "these orders came during the meeting straight from the hidden society upper realm. I had to comply." I heard another female voice and I knew it belonged to Jill Biden. "You don't understand the full plan yet Kamala," she said. "Then fill me in," Kamala Harris replied angrily. "You made me look like a fool and that we are divided in our policies regarding the presidential election."

I heard Joe Biden reply, "The only policy we have is what the hidden society or council of 13 gives us. Now understand this Kami we will appease the people and let them see our compassion and concern for them. This will cause them to become more favorable to us and easier to control and manage. They're easily deceived and gullible. We will follow through with our announcement but before we reach the decided date for the new election date for the nation in this year 2024 we will detonate the hidden suitcases which we will declare are terrorist attacks. And declare a state of emergency leaving me...us in power even if the election eventually finally takes place. I will assume the role of Commander and Chief Kami. And with those loyal to us in Congress and the Supreme Court as nuke after nuke erupts in our country, an exchange of leadership during such severe times may very well be prevented." "Are we going to detonate them all?" I heard Kamala ask. "We've been given a list of 10 out of the 12."

Suddenly I heard whispered to me softly, "Daughter of Mine go into the bathroom then turn around and come out. You're about to be discovered." I didn't hesitate and I entered quickly but as silently as I could. I recognized immediately the voice of my Lord and Savior Jesus Christ. I turned around, headed out the door and away from the still going on conversation.

"Hey you stop right there!" I heard a man's voice say sternly from behind. I turned to see a secret service man headed my way. He immediately saw the VIP tag pinned to my shirt and he relaxed slightly. I spoke quickly. "A group of us in the VIP section were sent the wrong way. Since it was such a long meeting I took time to enter the bathroom before trying to find my way out." He touched his chest and spoke quickly, "I found another one sent in the wrong direction. There should be two more unaccounted for. I'm taking this one to the exit." "Come with me," he ordered sharply.

I followed quickly. I wanted to ask how did he know the number of us who had been sent the wrong way but I knew it was in my best interest to remain quiet. As we finally arrived at the exit I thanked the service man. As I neared the door the VIP badge began to beep. I looked up in surprise. The secret servicemen replied, "I'm sorry, I forgot to have you return your VIP badge. Please remove it from your clothing and give it to me." "Sure," I replied as I quickly unpinned and handed it to him. He took it and said briskly, "Thank you, please exit the building now."

I complied without hesitation ready to be out of there. As I walked away I thought that's how they knew how many had went the wrong way in the building. It has some type of ID number or tracking inside it. "Wow, what a meeting! What am I supposed to do with all this information I have acquired?" I asked out loud as I rounded the corner and walked out of sight of the courthouse in the night. I heard these words spoken to me in an audible voice. "Daughter of Mine, you sound the warning once again." Then I awoke.

There is a growing concern among intelligence officials that electrical substations could be targeted on Election Day in battleground states to discourage voters from turning up at the polls and to sow distrust in election results that could intensify political hostility in the electoral process.

Police are still searching for the person suspected of setting Oregon and Washington drop boxes on fire Monday morning, destroying hundreds of ballots. The attacks prompted increased security measures and heightened voters' concerns a week before Election Day. CBS News homeland security and justice reporter Nicole Sganga reports on the investigation, and CBS News Confirmed executive editor Rhona Tarrant breaks down the threats to election infrastructure.

'Horrible elections': Trump attacks...

929 Likes 4,841 Views 1h Ago

Former president Donald Trump attacked the voting system in the United States, and called for a massive curtailing of voting access in his rally in Litzitz on Sunday.

In his nearly one hour and forty minute speech at the Lancaster Airport, Trump falsely implied that the 2020 election was stolen from him, and called on the elimination of all early and mail-in voting. He also called on states to use paper ballots, which are already used in 44 states including Pennsylvania.
