

It Has Come to This Again 1-2-25@3:53 AM

It has come to this again. Daughter, it has come to this again. Just like when I moved my hand and called forth the water and the rain fell for the first time. And the Waters of the deep erupted shooting forth from the ground as judgment's hand fell. This time has come again. Foretold and written about in Scripture only it's not as your world calls a reset. It is the ending of all days.

Can you feel daughter? Yes, you can. The finality of it all. Can you not feel it in the air like electricity as I move my hand across this land and world? And yet they still refuse to repent. They still refuse to get on their knees or on their faces before me with their holy God. Stiff necked, proud, boisterous people rebellious at heart.

But then I look across this world I created and I see My little ones. Few in number but true in heart for most of them daughter. For most of them true in heart, most of them who are really Mine are preparing to meet Me in the sky.

Daughter, it's time. I long for My bride to be with Me and you too, daughter. My children, My children I long for you to be here in the presence of My Father with Me. Standing side by side as I present you to Him spotless and unblemished. I promise you it's worth the cost you paid on earth. What We have in store for you is grand beyond your greatest expectations.

I say it's all worth it, it's all worth it. Hold on, hold on it's almost that moment in time. Don't be discouraged. I am your strength. I am your source of hope. I am your Spring of Living Waters and drink of Me. Be refreshed. Get in My Word. Spend time with Me. And I will sustain you and I will strengthen you. It's almost time, it's almost time.

I long to have My bride here daughter and you are part of My bride but you have chosen to do what's needed for the left behind. I long to show them the crystal sea and walk with them and talk with them and show them all that We've created for them.

Many like you daughter long to be with Me too and to be with My Father. It's all going to be worth it. I promise you children, it's all going to be worth it.

Hold on, hold on, hold on.

The final testing has arrived for those My bride and those to be. Stand fast in Me. Stand strong in Me. Do not squabble over this and over that.

Trust Me, trust Me, trust Me.

I hear your groaning. I hear your sighing, that you carry this battle day and night. Night and day. I have not forsaken you, I'm right on time.
