

The Marriage Supper Vision 5-18-24@7:39AM

While praying I heard these words followed by this vision.

Behold, He comes, the Bridegroom comes! The midnight cry has been heard and the porter calls for all who are ready to arise and enter into the Marriage Supper of the Lamb. All is prepared! All is ready, and now the wedding guest's attire is pure and white. All who have made themselves ready the cry goes out. The cry arises through space and time.

"Come My beloved, come sit at My table. Come and enjoy My feast I have prepared for you. O' come, O' come My beloved bride. It's time for Me to present you to My holy Father. Come, I say, come."

I am seeing a magnificent table with beauty like none other than before. There is delicate trimming in every place my eyes behold of intricate golds, silvers, and precious gems. It's breathtaking! It's perfect, not gaudy in any way. There's food prepared that never gets too hot or too cold. I see fruit both known and unknown and the table seems to continue out of my view.

Oh, but at the head of the table behind the finely detailed, carved golden chair is my lovely Jesus Christ with His arms opened wide. His hair is snowy white. His eyes are blue filled with holy fire and He is speaking. "The invitations have all been sent out. Our wedding celebration is now. The feast is ready, your homes are prepared. Now it's time," He said in a rich voice filled with love.

He's wearing a long white tunic-type garment with an overcoat of purple that's covered in many colors. It's gorgeous to behold, yet I cannot identify by name or sight all the colors I am seeing because they don't all exist here on earth. I am seeing my lovely Jesus with His arms stretched out wide. I hear Him say, "It's time My bride, you are beautiful! You are now ready for My return."

Now the vision has faded away.
