

The Yankee Stadium Dream & Word 3-25-25 @6:35 AM & Word @9:54 AM

Dream:

It began, I'm hearing the words "Baseball Diamond". I feel this is concerning things to come. It began when I'm looking down upon a green field from the sky. I'm sitting in one of the balcony seats overlooking what can only be a baseball field. It's vibrant green in its color, and there in the middle was a baseball diamond. There's a capital letter N that's overlapped by a capital letter Y. I realized I'm in some type of baseball stadium; it's enormous with many people here. I'm sitting on the 3rd balcony. I saw many advertising signs in various places above the ground and on ground level. I'm at the Yankee Stadium I now see because it's written in blue letters beside the screen on the opposite side where the batter stands. The largest one is showing a picture of what is happening on the baseball field for all to see the closeup. What was happening is, there was an enormous American flag that was being unfurled, stretched for all to see. The people are smiling, there is excitement in the air. Once the flag is stretched completely out, it's held in place by many people of all ages, all with great smiles upon each face.

Over the loudspeakers announcements were being made. It's sunny, but most of us, including me, were wearing light jackets. I could see that many fans were wearing baseball caps with the same curled capital N and overlapping Y. An excited woman looked at me and shouted, "It's opening day! The start of it all!" I smiled back at her as she turned back to watching the happenings below on the field. I watched somewhat apprehensively for some reason. So this is the start of it all, I thought to myself, just as the man on the left of me asked quickly, "Excuse me, can you tell me the time? My watch is still set for Israel's time." "Sure," I replied, and looked at the wristwatch I'm wearing (but never do in real life). "It's 3:00," I said. The man smiled and replied, "In Israel, it would be 9 PM. Thank you." "You're welcome," I replied, and then turned my attention back to the scene before me, the field before me. I heard the voice of a woman begin singing our National Anthem. I noticed most of the people were standing up now and holding their hands and hats to their chest. I immediately stood up, too. The woman's voice singing the National Anthem suddenly became almost harsh and cruel. It took on the sound of a man's voice when the song came to the part "...and the rockets red glare, the bombs bursting in air...".

I froze in place as horror washed over me, yet no one else seemed to notice the change in this voice or the song. As I'm writing this, I recognize the song as being sung this way by the same voice as in other dreams (3 Moons and 3 Moons Dream on 9-12-24 @ 6:21 PM and 3 Moons and the Destroyer Dream @ 12-31-24 to 1-2-25). I'm looking around frantically as the singer finishes the song. I heard a loud rumbling noise and realized jets had flown overhead. I am stunned by what I heard as I slowly sank down into my seat, trying not to draw attention to myself. Many of the other people in our section of the stands had already begun to sit down, as well. The giant American flag and the people are all quickly removed from the field as the players begin to take their place on the diamond on the field and in other locations. I looked around, still shaken by the song. It still appears that I was the only one to hear it sung in the cruel harsh voice of a man and not the woman actually performing it. "Should I leave?" I asked myself, but had an overwhelming urge, almost a need to remain, as if there's something I needed to see. I heard the words "Play ball!" As the batter stood ready to make his first swing. The pitcher rears back, raises his leg in his pitch, and gives the baseball a mighty throw. The batter hits it hard and it goes soaring into the air.

Suddenly it changes from a round white baseball to a black suitcase just as the woman beside me yelled out, "It's opening day! It's the start of it all!" Then I saw the stadium as if looking down upon a map, with its location drawn on the map. There is a body of water to the left of the land the stadium is located on. On the other side of the dividing body of water is another piece of land. There upon it is a white X laid upon it (It was Manhattan). Then I awoke.

Word @9:54 AM

“When the 10 rogue nuclear suitcases devices detonate inside your nation, the cycle will be completed. Inside your nation the cycle will be completed to now bring forth the judgment of the 3 Days of Darkness upon your whole world. It will affect every location inside the firmament, leaving no place untouched except Hell beneath and the Abyss in the places where no one can hide from My great wrath and anger. Yet to those who will come, who will repent, it is mercy extended from prayers prayed in times past and up till now in your world by those faithful to Me, Daughter. I am their Lord and Savior.”
